Sophomores Play "Brother Orchid"

The sets are down and the costumes are once again in storage, but the excitement of putting on their first play at Bellefontaine shall live on in the minds of the Sophomores.

One of the odd things, as any one will tell you about the actors, is that they all fit the part in description, such as Bill Boylan, who played Freckles; or Stan Schmidt, who played Brother Nasturtium.

John Sarto (Gary Borrowdale) is stunned to find himself in a monastery.

All twenty-six Sophomores took part in some way—actors, prompters, stagehands, make-up men, program committee, etc. The following are the members of the cast and the parts that they played: Terry Brady played the part of Fat Duchy; Bill Boylan played the part of Freckles; Mike Boyle played the part of Dum Dum, and Bernard Schaar, the Gimp. Roland Allen was Solomon; Tony Ortiz portrayed Dominic Battista; Gary Borrowdale starred as Brother Orchid; Stanley Schmidt acted out the part of Brother Nasturtium; Stephen Henner played the part of Brother Hollyhock; John Henn was Brother Geranium; and Tim Revers assumed the role of Jonquil the Abbot.

The play itself, "Brother Orchid," is the story of an ex-convict, the troubles he faces on his return from prison, and of his fleeing to a Florentine Monastery, where he brings nothing but havoc. After his year of noviceship, seeing the Florentines in dire need of money, and blocked by a crime syndicate, he withdraws on the eve of his First Vows to assist all the threatened, in the total destruction of the underworld which he had once ruled. A month later, his success became apparent. He succeeds in breaking up the syndicate and is preparing to return to the Monastery, when he is shot by one of the criminals who is seeking revenge.

The first sophomore play, staged here at Bellefontaine, was a success. Credit is due to Gary Borrowdale and the other members of the play, along with Frater Pavlik, who directed the play, for a fine performance.

Dominican Sisters Catalogue Library

Dominican Sisters and assistants start their day in the library.

The usually quiet downstairs library took on an air of activity as typewriters clicked and five busy librarians moved books to and from arranging them, cataloging them, stamping them. The much needed work was begun on November 17th with the arrival of three Dominican nuns, two from Caldwell College, Caldwell, New Jersey; and the third, Sister Mary Margaret, O. P., Supervisor of Schools, from St. Dominic Academy, Jersey City, New Jersey. Assisting the sisters were Mrs. Dorothy McGee and her daughter, Dorothy, of Lenox, Massachusetts. The work continued on through the week end, resulting in very orderly and well catalogued history and literature sections in the downstairs library.

It is only with gratitude that we point out this work being done by the sisters and their assistants. As the dictum goes, "the heart of a school is its library," and we are grateful to those who have made our "heart" function better. What they are doing will not only aid the present student body tremendously, but will also profit the future students of Immaculate Heart of Mary Seminary. We take this opportunity to say, "Thank You."

I. H. M.'s Neighbor So. Africa Bound

Father Tadyszak S. C. J. visited here at Immaculate Heart of Mary Seminary while he was on his way to New York, where he would then transfer to a boat destined for South Africa. As a missionary there, he will take up the exalted work of increasing the number of God's children in the Dark Continent. Father spent two days here at Bellefontaine, renewing acquaintances with the faculty and talking to the students, who found him to be a man truly devoted to God's service.

He spent 12 years in priestly work before he finally was given an opportunity to go to the foreign missions which has been his chief desire since ordination. He taught for some years at our minor Seminary in Donaldson, Indiana. There he gained a reputation as an outstanding teacher and an excellent all-around athlete. As athletic director, he helped many a boy learn how to throw a good pass or dribble down court; as perfect of discipline, he trained hearts for genuine service of God.

Father Peter Miller assisted by Brother Gabriel presents the Mission Cross to Father Tadyszak.

After several years at Divine Heart Seminary, he was assigned to our delayed vocations school in Great Barrington, Massachusetts, where he taught Latin for three years. It was in the summer of his third year there that he received permission to go to the South African missions. The next months were spent in immediate preparation for his appointment. He then made his way to New York, and from there, to his life's ambition, the missions.

While at our Seminary, Father Tadyszak inspired many of the students by his talk to the student body and his personal conversations. On the last day of his visit, he said his Mass for success in his work as a missionary. All the students showed their good wishes by a spiritual bouquet for the success of his new work.

omores here at Bellefontaine knew Father Fix, for he was the one who taught them English last year. But he was new to the freshmen. Father Fix, S.C.J., is scheduled to be a missionary this year in Sumatra. He is now awaiting his visa from the government of Indonesia. In Sumatra, there are only 35 S.C.J.'s, three of whom are bishops. At the present time, Father Fix is stationed at Sacred Heart Novitiate, Ste. Marie, Illinois.

Annual Retreat

The annual retreat which the students made here recently was the first retreat conducted at Bellefontaine since its founding by the Priests of the Sacred Heart. This retreat consisted of conferences by the retreat master, spiritual guidance, meditation, and prayer. This was a time in which the students could profit spiritually, and could ask God for the help, aid, and grace needed to reach the Holy Priesthood. During this retreat, the students were given time for spiritual reading and meditation. Throughout the whole retreat, which lasted from October 21-29, strict silence was to be observed in order to allow the students to talk with their Spiritual Maker. During this time, one was able to concentrate on his goal and his progress towards that goal.

Our retreat master for this retreat was Father Fix. The soph-

"The Honor Roll" is just what it says, a roll of honor. It honors the Seminarians who do exceptionally well in their studies. To be on "The Honor Roll" at Immaculate Heart of Mary Seminary one must have a ninety percent or higher average in all his subjects, and an "A" in conduct and in application. It is not easy, as anyone will tell you. Maintaining a ninety percent average requires a vast amount of prayer, work and study. One must know how to apply himself earnestly to his studies and it takes a great sacrifice to do so. There are some subjects harder than others, but all must be mastered well. Congratulations to the following, who have made the honor roll for the first quarter.

The Rector's Corner

My dear Future Seminarians,

With just a few more days before the wonderful feast of Christmas, our young seminarians are quite anxiously looking forward to spend it with their parents. They have been away from home for the past three and a half months, but in a few days they will have a family reunion.

You know, it takes a real "he-man" to leave home after eighth grade to study for the priesthood. There are so many friends and neighbors advising him to wait, stay at home, go to the seminary after high school or college. This is not the answer to a vocation to the priesthood, but rather a postponement. We should answer God's calling when we think it is the time He wants us to be in the seminary. We want to do God's will; what better way could we fulfill it then answering the call?

During the next few months you will no doubt be thinking of your first year of high school. If you think you have a vocation, you should give it serious thought this year. I know many of you are interested in the Sacred Heart Fathers. If you wish to know more about seminary life, you can write to the boys who are here. They will be only too glad to hear from you. Just take a name out of the school paper. Some of the boys are writing to the future freshmen of Bellefontaine.

One of the next important jobs you have now is to pray every day for your vocation. Pray also for the many thousands of young men who are also in the seminary. They will appreciate the prayers. Another important reminder is to study hard, because we will expect you to show your best in the seminary. Piety and knowledge are the tools of the priest; you will rely on them in the future, in the missions and as well as in training other future seminarians for the priesthood.

Wishing you a blessed and joyful Christmas and a remembrance of you and your intentions in my Christmas Masses, I am

Sincerely in Christ,

Father M. Guine

How to Start a Stamp Collection

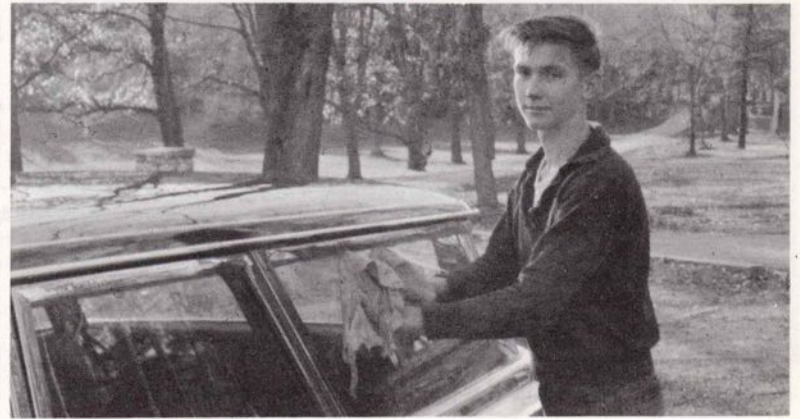

Stamp collecting is a hobby which takes time, work, and effort. One of the many advantages of collecting stamps is that a collection is very easy to start because stamps are so numerous and are so easily obtained. All that is necessary to start a collection are stamp hinges, an album, and some stamps, plus great interest in the hobby. Now if you are wondering where to get stamps, go on a treasure hunt through the house, searching for stamps that may have been stored away on old letters or postcards. Other ways are: have your friends save stamps for you, save stamps from the letters you receive every day and mail or trade stamps with other collector friends. By doing this, your collection will soon grow, and before you know it, your collection will really build up and you will be having lots of fun with your new hobby.

The students of our seminary are collecting stamps in order to aid the missions. Can you help us by sending stamps or asking others to send stamps to:

SOPHOMORE OF THE MONTH

James Brune, who was born in Brinkton, Missouri, is November's choice for "Sophomore of the Month." Jim is one of the best liked sophomores in the school.

Jim's grade school years were spent at Visitation Grammar School in Vienna, Missouri. After finishing grade school, he came to Divine Heart Seminary, Donaldson, Indiana, where he began his studies for the Holy Priesthood. He is now furthering his studies here at Bellefontaine.

Jim is an all around athlete, for he excels in every sport in which he participates, especially football and baseball. He is one of the best halfbacks here at the Seminary, although his favorite sport is baseball, which answers for his skill and eager participation in that game.

His favorite subject is Geometry, but it can hardly be said that he is weak in any subject. He works hard in all of his studies. He is an average student and does very well with the ability given to him.

Here in the Seminary, Jim has been given the responsibility of taking care of the cars and garage. Jim is thankful for the new garage which has been built for the Seminary. Besides being of help to him, the new garage will also give Jim more work and responsibility. Jim always comes through with the work and responsibility entrusted to him and he can always be counted on to do his best. We can look for success in all that he does.

Films . . Films . . Films . .

No one doubts the great value of audio-visual educational aids, and the faculty here are using these aids whenever possible. At present, Frater Jackson, S.C.J., has just begun a series of films which are shown during recreation periods since they are not directly connected with class-work. The entire student body is invited to these showings, but attendance is no obligatory. Frater has also shown films during his History classes, the mostly widely acclaimed being "The Crusades." On December eighth, Frater Pavlik, S.C.J., concludes a series of films from the Esso Corporation which center around American history, specifically the colonies. Most of the films thus far appear to have had a favorable reception by the students. How much they benefited by the movies will only be shown in their discussions and class papers.

Father Hudson Conducts Retreat

During the time the students of Bellefontaine were making a retreat, Father Francis Hudson, S.C.J., gave a retreat to the minor seminarians at Delaware, Ontario. This Seminary is one of the two seminaries the Priests of the Sacred Heart have in Canada. To many of the boys Father Hudson was not new, for he had given a retreat there a few years ago. These boys, knowing Father Hudson, gave him their whole-hearted cooperation.

The retreat lasted for three days in which Father Hudson gave a series of thirteen conferences. These conferences were centered around the theological virtues of Faith, Hope, and Charity. The main portion of the conferences centered around the virtue of Charity, since it is a vital element on the way to the priesthood. The boys were impressed by Father's insight into this virtue.

When Father returned, he stated that he enjoyed the retreat very much and that he hoped the students had benefited from it. Now that he is back at Immaculate Heart of Mary, we can once more benefit from his guidance and counsel.

Rev. Father Hogya, S.C.J., directs the choir as William Boylan assists him on the organ.

This month we would like you to meet a new member of the Faculty, Father Stephen T. Hogya, S.C.J., who came to Immaculate Heart of Mary Seminary this fall.

Father Hogya began his studies for the priesthood in the year 1935 at Hales Corners, Wisconsin. He stayed there one year before he went to the Novitiate in Ste. Marie, Illinois for fifteen months. After he finished his Postulancy and Novitiate, he returned to Hales Corners and studied for four more years before he was ordained in the year 1940.

After his Ordination in 1940, Father Hogya was sent to Divine Heart Seminary, Donaldson, Indiana, where he taught mathematics and physics for one year. Father was transferred after one year to Holly Springs, Miss. Here he was assistant pastor to Father Michael Flanagan, S.C.J. While he was stationed at Holly Springs, he helped build a church at Walls, Mississippi. When the church was completed, he was made its pastor and the superior of the Community stationed there at Walls, for about ten years. He was then transferred back to Holly Springs and made its pastor and superior. In 1959 he was transferred to Honesdale, Pa. for one year and afterwards was transferred to Sacred Heart Monastery, Hales Corners, Wisconsin.

Now Father Hogya is stationed here at I.H.M. where he is in charge of the music department for the Sophomores and Freshmen. Besides being in charge of the music lessons, he takes care of the carpentry shop. Because of the latter talent, the Seminarians refer to him as "Father Fix-it."

1. "Bellefontaine" begins right here at the conference table where editor, advisor, and writers plan the coming month's articles.

2. Articles are then assigned by the editor to those students who are willing to use their time and talents to write about happenings in the seminary.

3. Terry Trotochaud (pictured here) and Father Hudson, S.C.J., are at this time taking pictures which correspond to the material written.

4. The typists, Bernard Shaar and Stanley Schmidt, are soon busy typing the stories approved and corrected by the editor and other staff members.

5. As soon as possible the neatly typed articles are off to the printer who prints them on galley sheets, the newspaper in "rough print." Here Stanley Schmidt is seen correcting a galley sheet.

6. Meanwhile, the editor and associate editor cut apart another galley sheet which is pasted to a form sheet along with pictures. The newspaper is now set up as it will appear in the final form.

7. The printers are busy turning out "Bellefontaine" on their presses.

8. Soon the paper is back in Massachusetts where the seminarians address it to friends and benefactors.

9. All the labor in producing and distributing our newspaper is soon forgotten as the seminarians relax and read about their life of prayer, work, and play.

Hi Fellows,

Football season is almost over now, but its spirit is still in the air. Some teams, expected to be in the first division, are in the last division. Others were picked to be on the lower rung of the ladder, but through hard work, have merited first place positions.

Father Richard

The team in first place is there because it has spent hours of running, blocking, and passing in practice for the games. Long hard days were spent in correcting mistakes. Weeks of scrimmaging preceded weekly victories. Months of self-sacrifice merited the position it holds today.

The team in last place, or even close to it, has merely neglected to use the means to victory. It is a failure now because it did not practice hard enough.

Boys with vocations to the priesthood are like the members of a football team in training. Just as the football player must watch his weight, keep in trim, develop his body to make an all-American, so the grade school boy must develop in three ways: Physically, he must take care of his health, develop his body by exercise, and carry it upright, like a soldier. Intellectually, he must study hard. This means attention in school, hard work at home, and the development of interest in studies. Spiritually, he must use prayer and the sacraments to strengthen his vocation. If he uses these means, he will certainly be a member of the first place team.

In the Sacred Heart,

F. Richard, S.C.J.

Dear Mom and Dad,

There are eight more shopping days till Christmas! Sounds real close, doesn't it? I won't have to worry about shopping this year, as I will be home just before Christmas. I'm looking forward to see all of you and the whole neighborhood. The three months have gone by quickly, now that I look back; all I can remember for each day, is getting up at that terrible hour of six and going to bed at nine.

You have been asking what I want for Christmas. Not much. You gave me my Christmas gifts getting me ready for school in September. Now it is the rest of the kids turn.

Since my last letter a lot of things have happened. The biggest event was the retreat. It was three whole days, Dad. We were supposed to keep silence—at least I tried. Now that I know what it is like, I'm sure the next one will be better in the silence department. We had a very nice retreat director, Father Fix, who is going to the missions in Sumatra soon. He told a lot of jokes and gave us serious talks too. It was a good experience. I prayed for all of you.

The boys put on a Minstrel the day after retreat. It had a lot of catchy tunes. I tried out for the show, but the piano and I didn't agree on the songs.

I've reread your letters on my conduct mark; I won't get a "C" in conduct for the coming quarter. I'm learning fast this is serious and no fooling around. My next report card will be my proof.

Guess what? I've gained nine pounds since school started; I'm no "butterball" but a solid 94 lbs. The Sisters have been feeding us well. With all the sports I've been playing, I thought I would never gain a pound, but the routine schedule takes care of all that.

For the past three weeks, I've been writing to a boy in eighth who wants to come to I.H.M. next year. All I can tell him is how much I like it and he will have to make his own decision.

Well, Mom and Dad, I'll be seeing you in a few weeks. Give my greetings to Grandma and Grandpa. I wrote to Aunt Esther; I hope she is feeling better. Still praying hard for all of you. I know you are praying for me. Say hello to the kids.

Your Son,

Joe

Vaudeville Days Reappear

The feast of Christ the King is one of the patronal feasts in the Congregation of the Priests of the Sacred Heart. The morning was appropriately started off with a Solemn High Mass, celebrated by Father Fix, S.C.J. Later in the morning Adoration and Solemn Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament were held.

In the evening, a supper was given in honor of the S.C.J. Seminarists from Dehon Seminary in Great Barrington, Massachusetts. After supper, everyone from I.H.M., the Seminarists from Dehon Seminary, as well as the Sisters and a group of visitors from the area, found themselves laughing at such characters at Bones, Tambo, Kingfish, and Greased Lightning. Yes, you have probably already guessed that this was a minstrel show. This troupe of comedians sang such Negro melodies and old favorites as: "Shortnin' Bread" by Tom Rieber, "My Mammy" by Gary McInnis, "Rock a-Bye Your Baby With a Dixie Melody" by Frank Brauer, "Pretty Baby" by Gene Lavoie, and others. Gary McInnis, the Interlocutor, did a terrific job in gaining laughs from his audience. The grand finale of the show was the ever famous "When the Saints Go Marching In," which was sung by the entire group. We take this opportunity to thank the entire cast, as well as Nick Frankunas and John Lopez for supplying music; to Steve Henner and Alan Waters for the tactful timing of the lights; and to Gary Borrowdale for costumes and make-up. Most of all, thanks must be given to Frater Pavlik, S.C.J., for his efforts and time put into the direction of the show.

Following the Minstrel show, Al Muniz, from the Dehon Seminary, played several favorites on his guitar. Al had formerly been a professional guitar player before he entered the Seminary. He did an excellent job on the two Spanish songs, "El Rancho Grande" and "Atotonilic", which he sang in honor of our Spanish speaking nuns, as well as many others. All enjoyed his music tremendously as was shown by the applause.

The evening ended all too soon, but the communities of I.H.M. and Dehon Seminary certainly found it to be very enjoyable. We sincerely hope that in the future the two seminaries will spend more evenings like this together.

Was A-Bomb in World War II Justified

A debate, as you probably already know, is a form of argument. It involves two sides, pro and con. "Pro" is a Latin word which means "on behalf of" or "for." Therefore, the pro team of a debate is the side that favors the statement which is being argued over. The con team is against it.

The first of the series of debates was held on Wednesday,

Richard Biron gives the rebuttle for the affirmative.

October 25th. The topic of this debate was: "The Americans were justified in dropping the Atomic Bomb on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in World War II."

The captain of the pro team was John Lopez. The other members of that team were Patrick Houterman, Charles Dymer, and Richard Biron. The captain of the con team was Timothy Revers; and the members of his team were Peter Adams, William Smith, and Robert Murphy.

The pro team opened the debate. A member of the pro team, Charles Dymer, got up and delivered his speech. After giving his speech, he gave the floor to a member of the con team, Peter Adams. Following this, the other members of the teams gave their speeches in their respective turns, until all four members of both teams had delivered their speeches.

At the end of the debate, each team was allotted some time to prepare their five minute rebuttal speeches. Then the rebuttals were made. They summarized all the arguments that had been brought up by respective sides, to prove the various points of view. After this, the three judges, Father Casper, Frater Jackson, and Frater Pavlik, decided who was the winner of the debate.

During the course of the debate, both sides had delivered good speeches containing good arguments and points which were the result of extensive research. Both sides tried their very best, but it was decided by the judges that the con team was the winner of the debate. The con team had won the debate because they had presented their arguments in a clearer, more understandable, and more convincing way, than did the opposing team.

I am sure everyone who participated and listened to this debate profited from it, and I think each one will profit from the next debate which will be held on Thanksgiving Eve.

Dehon vs. I.H.M.

The day of the game started off as cloudy and rainy, and it continued that way throughout the rest of the day, raining periodically. In the morning of November 6th about 9:00, the coach of Immaculate Heart of Mary Seminary's school team, Father Hudson, gave a pep talk and the team then worked out.

In the afternoon the school team met Dehon Seminary in a football game which will never be forgotten.

It was a deadlock battle until John Lopez of I.H.M. intercepted a Great Barrington pass and went 45 yards for the first touchdown. John Martin then engaged the extra point pass to make the score 7-0.

During the second quarter, both teams were fighting hard but with no major progress until Clinton Martin pitched out to John Martin, who went 58 yards to make the score 13-0. After I.H.M. missed the extra point the half ended.

As the teams came trotting

The team that made football history by defeating Great Barrington.

onto the field for the third quarter, it was Dehon Seminary's turn to kick. Early in the third quarter John Lopez faded back and hit Pat Houterman with a 45 yard pass. This brought the ball down to the Great Barrington's 15 yard line. Two plays later, Clinton Martin hit John Martin for the third I.H.M. touchdown, making the score 19-0. When the ball changed hands, the quarterback, William Baumker, of the Dehon Seminary school team made a splendid run for Dehon's first touchdwn.

About half way through the last quarter, Clinton Martin connected with Tony Ortiz for 31 yards. The ball changed hands again and Dehon started their offensive attack, which ended in a touchdown by Jack Kruger. From here on in, good offensive and defensive plays were made by both sides, but there were no more touchdowns scored. And so the final score was 19-12, with Immaculate Heart of Mary Seminary the victor.

After the game, both teams enjoyed the victory banquet in the Seminary's dining hall.

Close Race For First Place

As the teams of the A league battle through another rough football season, the going gets tougher. Thus far, Clent Martin and Mike Fech have teams that have shown the best results. These two teams have both a good offensive and a good defensive squad.

As the season is speedily coming to the three quarters mark, the teams are beginning to show their true colors. Mike Fech's team is only a half game under Clent Martin's team which is in first place. Now, both teams are fighting for first. Both of these teams have good running and terrific passing attacks and use these advantages very well.

Coming in third is Duke Martin's team, which has terrific running and passing powers, but is a little weak in its line. We can't say they're doomed for third, because the excellent running of Duke Martin and Tony Ortiz may aid them to move forward. Duke's team is aided very much by John Henn's bolstering defensive and offensive work.

Although McInnis's team is in last place, it has some outstanding players such as John Lopez, who is the quarterback, and Gary himself who is one of the best linemen in the school.

Mike Fech has won 8 games, lost 4, and tied one; Clent Martin's team has won 9 games and lost 4; Duke Martin's team has won 6 games and lost 6 and tied one; and Gary McGinnis's team has won 2 and lost 10. It should prove to be an interesting season, no telling what may happen before the end of it.

The B League

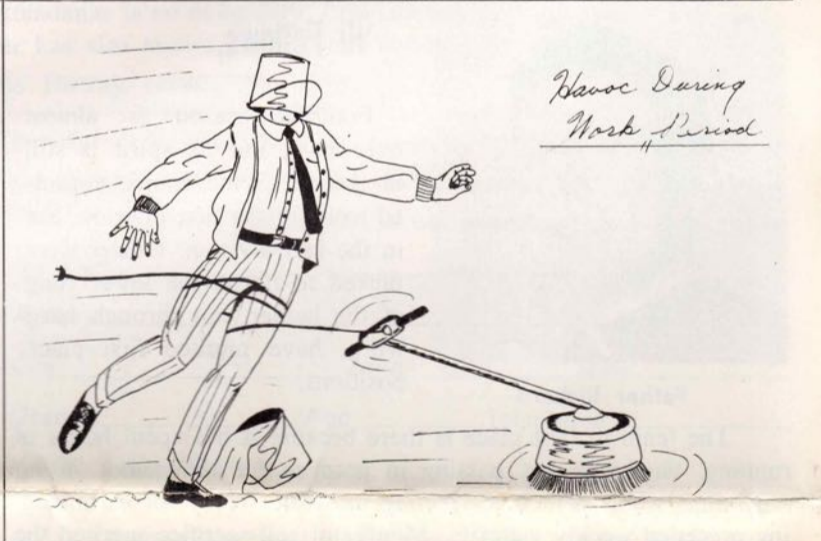

At the beginning of the football season, the boys here at Bellefontaine were divided up into two leagues.

The B league is composed of the freshmen who are a little too small for the competition in the A league. This is a pigskin report on the B league.

There are two teams in the B league this year. Gregory Spick is the captain of one, with Ronald Furlong as his co-captain. Robert Murphy is the captain of the other, and his co-captain is Roger Conti.

As the standings are now, Speck's team has the edge over Murphy's. Speck's team has won eight games and Murphy's has won four. They have also tied three games. Although from all stand points Murphy has a better behaved team than Speck, the records do not show it.

In the B league the games are very interesting for both teams show their determination to win. They have very good team spirit, which is an essential factor of a good team. In the future, we can look for some very promising developments from the B league.
